5. Materials that mimic the look of marble, like porcelain tiles, are popular because they're versatile, and easy to install and maintain. "Porcelanosa's vast range of tiles feature a low water absorption rate and are highly resistant to damage," says Eloy Selles, general manager, Porcelanosa, Anaheim. "The Soul collection is available in seven shades, and is suitable for wall and floor applications, high-traffic areas, showers and outdoor surfaces."

6. Brassy fixtures and bold patterns pack a lot of punch in a small space. In this powder room Strickler designed, a Martinique tropical banana leaf wallpaper pattern creates an outdoors-inside feel. The mirror and vanity are by Waterworks. "For 2017, we will be seeing a lot more brass fixtures and hardware, along with new quartzites that look like concrete," says Robin Strickler of Design Works, Irvine.

7. "The era of boring powder rooms has come to an end! Change your powder room into a jewel box, a tiny space to impress and surprise your guests," says ASID President Elect Nazgol Seyedi. One of Seyedi's recent projects, this powder room features backlit quartzite from Trendy Surfaces and vanity top with a mix of flattering warm and cool light. Ombré walls by local artist A Brush With Life enlarge the space, while the Italian cut crystal sink by MaestroBath becomes the focal point of the space.
